

[SYNTHETIC SAMPLE] Fictional record generated for the DELPHi prototype demo. Names, institutions, and statements are invented; the layout imitates a generic field-medical format. Not a real document and not derived from any real record.

[CONFERENCE REFERENCE] The meeting named above is a real, publicly announced scientific congress and is used here only as the setting of this fictional record. No session content, abstract, poster, or presented data from that meeting is reproduced or paraphrased; every person and conversation below is invented.

Congress Attendance Report — American Epilepsy Society Annual Meeting (AES) 2021

Meeting period: December 2021 | Author: Ingrid Halvorsen

Scope: unsolicited conversations held on-site. Session content and presented data are deliberately not reproduced here.

Conversation — Rohan Vasquez-Lund, MD (Ember Lake Medical Group)

Caught between sessions in the poster hall; the conversation was short and entirely unprompted. Spent some time on the pediatric-to-adult transfers and how workup decisions get sequenced. Titration habits came up in general terms; no specifics were discussed and none were offered. Formulary questions is handled by one person here, which came up as a general frustration.

Conversation — Valentina Kettleborn, MD (Juniper Flats Neurology Partners)

Approached me rather than the other way around, which is worth noting. Titration scheduling is handled by nursing staff, which the practice finds workable. Talked through the older half of the panel in general terms, without any specific case. Referral patterns into this clinic have changed, and long-standing patients is a bigger share than it was.

Conversation — Malika Silverthorne, MD (Kestrel Comprehensive Epilepsy Clinic)

A hallway conversation during the afternoon break. Asked about my travel schedule, since visits keep landing on the busiest clinic days. The travel schedule this year came up, and little else. No specific request this time. Asked about safety and confirmed nothing to report.

Conversation — Rosalind Wainwright, MD (Sable Creek Medical Group)

Introduced by a colleague from the same region and talked for a few minutes. Compared notes on which sessions were worth the time. Most of the discussion was about the phone triage line, which is still being sorted out. Closed there — no product discussion.

Conversation — Renata Hollingsworth, MD (Silver Creek Medical Group)

We spoke standing near the exhibit aisles, briefly. Titration habits came up in general terms; no specifics were discussed and none were offered. The travel schedule this year came up, and little else. Described the practice as early in its experience here, with nothing to report yet.

Conversation — Tobias Norrington, MD (Marbury Neurological Care Center)

Approached me rather than the other way around, which is worth noting. Formulary placement was the only product-adjacent topic, and only in general terms. Spent some time on long-standing patients and how workup decisions get sequenced.

Conversation — Imani Eastmond, MD (Granite Bay Epilepsy Center)

Introduced by a colleague from the same region and talked for a few minutes. Closed there — nothing actionable this visit. Compared notes on which sessions were worth the time.

Conversation — Cormac Grierson, MD (Palmetto Neurology Institute)

We spoke standing near the exhibit aisles, briefly. Titration scheduling is handled by nursing staff, which the practice finds workable. Mostly small talk about the program and the venue. Left it at that, with a call later this month to be scheduled.

Conversation — Bettina Wetherby, MD (Ember Lake Medical Group)

The conversation happened while waiting for a session room to clear. Asked whether I had seen a case series someone forwarded; I had not, and offered nothing in return. The composition of long-standing patients has shifted over the last year or two.

Conversation — Ulrike Pemberton, MD (Cedar Ridge Regional Epilepsy Program)

A hallway conversation during the afternoon break. The appeals process is handled by one person here, which came up as a general frustration. Referenced a guideline update discussed at journal club in passing.

Conversation — Silvio Barrowman, MD (Beacon Hill Neurology Associates)

Approached me rather than the other way around, which is worth noting. Mostly small talk about the program and the venue. Described how the surgical workup list is triaged now compared with before.

Conversation — Anouk Oyelaran, MD (Marbury Neurological Care Center)

A short exchange over the coffee queue. Left it at that, with a follow-up appointment to be scheduled. Formulary placement was the only product-adjacent topic, and only in general terms. The appeals process is handled by one person here, which came up as a general frustration.

Follow-ups have been logged in the interaction system.
